EDITOR MURDERED

J. Y. SCHENCK OF SULPHUR VICTIM OF JOHN LINDSAY, FORMER COUNTY TREASURER.

Sulphur, Okla., Aug. 29.—Adverse editorial comment followed by the refusal of the editor to "eat the paper" containing it, when commanded to do so by the subject of the article, resulted in the death of J. Y. Schenck, editor of the Sulphur Democrat here Friday morning. John Lindsay, former county treasurer of Murray county, is now confined in the Cleveland county jail at Norman, charged with the killing.

Lindsay was rushed to Norman on the first train after the tragedy by Sheriff Rawlings to avoid all danger of mob violence as the residents of Sulphur are highly incensed because of the killing.

Lindsay was rushed to Norman on the first train after the tragedy by Sheriff Rawlings to avoid all danger of mob violence as the residents of Sulphur are highly incensed because of the killing.

Lindsay, it is alleged, shot Schenck twice with a double-barreled shotgun while the editor was sitting in a buggy in front of a blacksmith shop, waiting to have the buggy repaired. The first shot took away Schenck's hand, which he had thrown in front of his breast, several shot also entering his breast.

"Don't shoot any more," cried Schenck, "I am a dead man now."

But Lindsay, it is alleged, fired the second barrel, the shot entering the right breast of his victim tearing a great hole. Schenck lived forty-five minutes after the shooting, but never regained consciousness.

For several years Lindsay and Schenck have been bitter political enemies, and Lindsay finished on July 1, serving a term as county treasurer, an office which he had held continuously since statehood. He was a candidate for sheriff in the primary to be held next year, according to his friends.

On July 21 Schenck published a long article in the Democrat which criticized Lindsay. It stated in substance that Lindsay was attempting to direct the affairs of the board of county commissioners. This statement referred to the action of the board allowing the new county treasurer $600 for a deputy following his declaration in the campaign that he would conduct the office without help if elected. The board allowed the extra $600 because the legislature increased the duties of the county treasurer, but Lindsay, according to the Democrat, was objecting to this.

The article also stated that the former county official had voted for socialist candidates and worked for the socialist ticket in the election last fall while holding office as a democrat. The Democrat stated that Lindsay was a candidate for sheriff, but supposed he would not run on the democratic ticket after his socialist record, and stated that it would oppose his candidacy.

It further stated that Lindsay had been disowned by the socialists because he had failed to prosecute a suit for libel which he brought last year against the sheriff, who he alleged, had accused him of voting the socialist ticket. This suit was for $20,000.

Because of the fact that Schenck lives in east Sulphur and Lindsay in west Sulphur, the two had never met since the publication of the objectionable article. Friday morning, Schenck went over on the west side to have his buggy repaired and Lindsay saw him there.

According to the story of the killing, Lindsay walked up to the buggy where Schenck was sitting and showing him a copy of the paper, demanding that he eat it. The editor said nothing, and then, it is alleged, Lindsay stepped back, raised his gun and opened fire.

The killing occurred at 9 o'clock Friday morning and Lindsay was taken to Norman on the early afternoon train. Friends tried to get him out on bond, but this was refused. The date of his preliminary hearing has not been set. Lindsay formerly resided at Norman and has a family there.

Schenck was a middle-aged man and was expecting the appointment as postmaster of Sulphur. It is said that he had everything lined up to secure the place.

THAW'S CHAUFFEUR GIVEN LIBERTY

Sherbrooke, Quebec, Aug. 30.—It was reported in Sherbrooke early today (Saturday) that Superior Judge Hutchinson, returning from his vacation, has agreed to grant to Canadian lawyers, acting for New York state, a writ of habeas corpus calling for the production of Harry K. Thaw in court at once.

Sherbrooke, Quebec, Aug. 29.—New York State made no step forward today in its fight to return Harry K. Thaw to Matteawan Asylum. He remains in the Sherbrooke jail on a commitment which will not bring him in to court until the King's Bench convenes in October and William Travers Jerome, conferring with Canadian counsel, has been unable to secure the throwing of the bolt that detains him. Gentleman Roger Thompson, erstwhile Times Square chauffeur, lounged about the hotel corridors this afternoon, lunched and dined near Jerome, wrote letters to friends, walked the streets unmolested and kept silence as regards the Thaw case. He was released on $500 bail today on the double charge of having entered Canada "by stealth" and of having aided an undesirable (Thaw) to cross the border. He will be tried on these charges, barring further postponements, on Wednesday next.

Furnished with counsel by the Thaw family and provided with spending money, presumably from the same source, Thompson flatly and repeatedly refused to tell what transpired on and after the Sunday morning on which he drove Thaw away from the asylum.

Exchanges Close Until Tuesday.

New York, Aug. 29.—The New York Stock Exchange, the Cotton Exchange and virtually all the other big exchanges in this city closed today for the Labor Day holiday and will not resume operations until Tuesday.

R. L. MCGUYRE'S HOME BURNED

NOTHING SAVED; LOSS $3,000 WITH ONLY ABOUT $1,500 INSURANCE.

About 8:30 this morning the residence of R. L. McGuyre, two miles northwest of Ada, was destroyed by fire. Mrs. McGuyre had left for town a few minutes before the fire was discovered and Mr. McGuyre was away looking after matters on another part of the place. When discovered the fire had made such headway that it was impossible to save a thing from the house. The dairy house and a tenant house also caught but there happened to be plenty of water in the tank supplied by the windmill and these buildings were saved, although considerably damaged.

It is supposed that the fire caught between ceiling and roof from a defective ue. Mr. McGuyre estimates his loss at fully $3,000 with only about $1,500 insurance.

PROHIBITIONISTS HOLDING CONFERENCE

Guthrie, Ok., Aug. 29.—The State prohibition conference was opened in the city hall this morning, being composed largely of the chairmen of the various county prohibition organizations. The attendance was not as large as had been expected by the executive committee, but those present were very earnest and full of enthusiasm. During the addresses of President J. E. Brewer and the welcome by Mayor J. E. Nissley brief references were made to what was declared to be the recent efforts on the part of the agents of liquor dealers to nullify as far as possible all that has been done by the prohibitionists in Oklahoma.

James H. Woertendyke of California, who has been in the state several weeks, gave the conference some advice along the line of law enforcement and said this was the "duty of the hour." He told the assembled workers that "the enemy" is at work preparing many cities and communities for what will be "virtually open saloons."

It was pointed out by several of the speakers that the repeal of the state enforcement law by the last legislature was the hardest blow the cause of prohibition had ever received since the constitutional amendment was voted in by the people. It was also told that the refusal by the last legislature to empower the governor to arbitrarily remove from office any county official who refused to enforce the laws was another well-directed blow at the prohibition law.

A number of addresses were made by delegates from various sections of the state treating of the coming campaign. They told of the strong and tireless interests that are now ready to begin a desperate struggle to break the prohibition forces in Oklahoma. At the close of the afternoon session, President J. E. Brewer of Guthrie said he, more than any other person present, realized the importance of the fight that is just before them. After telling of his business and its demands on his time, he presented his resignation, which was accepted, and Rev. T. E. Sisson of Guthrie was elected to succeed him Oct. 1. Mr. Sissons is active field superintendent of all the Methodist Episcopal Sunday schools in Oklahoma and Texas.

The conference also arranged to have James H. Woertendyke of California, a member of the National executive committee, return to Oklahoma Oct. 1 and remain in the field for an indefinite time.

Prof. John H. Bowers of the A. & M. College at Stillwater delivered an address occupying the entire evening session of "The Cost of the Drink Traffic."

There are upward of 5000 building material teamsters in New York City. Steam laundries in the United States employ 109,484 persons.

The question of removing the national headquarters of the Journeymen Tailors' Union from Bloomington, Ill., has been left to a referendum vote of the members.

WHY JOHN D. WEPT.

Mr. Rockefeller wept while addressing an assemblage of deaf mutes the other day. It was the first time for many years that he had seen so many people together who had never uttered a word in denunciation of Standard Oil.—Kansas City Journal.

The killing of Editor Schenck of the Sulphur Democrat should have the effect of causing the editorial association of the state to provide a fund for the vigorous prosecution of such cases. Shooting editors should be made too dangerous a pastime to be indulged in and in every case the shooter should be made to feel the vengeance of the fraternity.

The friends of Judge Brown of Mangum, who urged his appointment as a member of the supreme court to succeed Judge Dunn, made a mistake in their methods. They should have protested against Judge Brown and urged the appointment of the other fellow. The governor would then undoubtedly have shown his back bone by appointing Brown.

The serial story now running in the News, will conclude in another day or two. It has proved one of the most popular we have ever run and when it was necessary to omit an installment for a day, the office was sure to hear from its readers, a fact showing how well they liked the story. Another will be ordered at once and this feature made a permanent one of the paper.

The Durant Democrat states that although on the occasion of his recent visit to his home town Judge R. L. Williams refused to say whether or not he would be a candidate for governor next year, the Democrat is expecting him to issue his announcement within the next month. All that could be got out of Bob when asked about it was a smile, but the Democrat claims it was a smile that had an affirmative look about it.

SAVES DAUGHTER

Advice of Mother no Doubt Prevents Daughter's Untimely End.

Ready, Ky.—"I was not able to do anything for nearly six months," writes Mrs. Laura Bratcher, of this place, "and was down in bed for three months."

I cannot tell you how I suffered with my head, and with nervousness and womanly troubles.

Our family doctor told my husband he could not do me any good, and he had to give it up. We tried another doctor, but he did not help me.

At last, my mother advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic. I thought it was no use for I was nearly dead and nothing seemed to do me any good. But I took eleven bottles, and now I am able to do all of my work and my own washing.

I think Cardui is the best medicine in the world. My weight has increased, and I look the picture of health."

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, get a bottle of Cardui today. Delay is dangerous. We know it will help you, for it has helped so many thousands of other weak women in the past 50 years.

NEWS FORECAST FOR THE COMING WEEK

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—Numerous events of more or less interest and importance are on the calendar for the coming week, and will share public attention with the Shaw case, the developments in the Mexican situation and the proceedings of congress.

The annual meeting of the American Bar Association, which will begin a three days' session Monday in Montreal, will attract more than ordinary attention because of the unusual prominence of some of the participants. Among those who will take part are Viscount Haldane, Lord Chancellor of Great Britain, former President William H. Taft, Chief Justice White of the Supreme Court of the United States, Senator Elihu Root of New York, and Maitre Labori, one of the eminent leaders of the French bar.

A centennial of interest will be the one hundredth anniversary of the victory of the United States ship Enterprise over the British cruiser Boxer. The engagement was fought off the Maine coast Sept. 5, 1813, and attained a mournful celebrity by reason of the fact that both the American and British commanders were slain. The victory came but five days before Perry's triumph on Lake Erie, and was peculiarly welcome to the Americans since it relieved the popular depression caused by the capture of the Chesapeake by the Shannon three months before.

If his other engagements permit, Secretary of State Bryan will go to Maine during the week and spend two days stumping the Third congressional district of that state, where a special election is to be held soon to choose a successor to the late Congressman Goodwin. William R. Pattan, the Democratic candidate, is conducting his campaign largely on national issues, and in consequence the national Administration is taking a lively interest in the contest.

Harmony between the great families of Germany will be further shown at the marriage of Princess Augustine Victoria of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen, with the civil ceremony the day previous. Eighty princes and princesses will attend, including the Prince of Wales, representing King George, and four princesses as bridesmaids.

Other events of the week abroad will include the meeting of the Inter-parliamentary Union at The Hague, the international convention of Zionists at Vienna, and the meeting of the International Statistical Institute, also in Vienna.

Important gatherings of the week will include the annual convention of the International Association of Fire Engineers, in New York City; the national convention of the Farmers' Cooperative and Educational Union, at Salina, Kas.; the national encampment of the United Spanish War veterans, at Buffalo, and the annual meeting of the Dominion Association of Chartered Accountants, at Winnipeg.

The week of Labor Day will see the assembling of numerous labor organizations in national convention. The letter carriers will meet in San Francisco, the postoffice clerks in Indianapolis, the painters, decorators and paperhangers in Rochester, the street and electric railway employees in Salt Lake City.

Of interest to the followers of sport and athletics will be the international rifle matches at Camp Perry, the German-American sonder boat races off Marblehead, Mass., the Middle States rowing regatta at New York, the national amateur golf championship tournament at Garden City, L. I., the annual horse show at Newport, R. I., the Grand Circuit races at Hartford, Conn., the Great Western Circuit races at the Minnesota State Fair, and the opening of the fall meeting of the Montreal Jockey Club.

O. W. Taylor of Roff, state president of the Farmers Union, is being considered for appointment on the state board of agriculture. Mr. Taylor is a good man for the place and his appointment would be a merited recognition of the union.

Mrs. Cooper Hostess.

Friday afternoon Mrs. H. S. Cooper was hostess to the Friday Bridge Club. Four tables were prepared for the players, and after the game had been concluded the hostess served a delicious salad course.

Mrs. Wintersmith Entertains 500 Club.

Wednesday afternoon the 500 club was entertained by Mrs. J. M. Wintersmith. There were five tables for the players and after an interesting game a dainty vice course was served.

LIND WILL NOT RETURN TO MEXICO

Washington, Aug. 29.—Administration officials were puzzled today by dispatches saying that John Lind had reconsidered his plans to go to Mexico City and would remain in Vera Cruz for several days.

The understanding had been from official messages received yesterday that he would take a early train today for Mexico City to resume negotiations with the Huerta government. Secretary Bryan and President Wilson had an early conference.

Has Agreed to Nothing.

Mexico City, Aug. 29.—The announcement of the possible return of John Lind to Mexico City, brought from Senor Gamboa, minister of foreign affairs, the declaration last night that Mexico had agreed to nothing and that Senor Gamboa's note of August 26 to Mr. Lind was the last communication he sent.

It was suggested to the minister that President Wilson representative was coming to the capital to resume negotiations. Senor Gamboa replied that this appeared not unlikely, as he naturally expected a reply to his last note. He added that Mr. Lind would be entirely welcome at the capital and that personally he would be glad to see him.

The return of Mr. Lind would do much to reassure thousands of anxious Americans, many of whom are planning a speedy departure from the capital.

The warning of President Wilson has been telegraphed to all consuls who could be reached in this way and arrangements have been made for couriers to points, such as Durango, which are cut off from telegraphic communication.

The warning contained the sentence: "You will convey to the authorities the indication that any maltreatment of Americans would be likely to raise the question of intervention."

Regardless of the assurance contained in President Wilson's message, that the policy of the administration was one of non-intervention, many Americans in Mexico are skeptical of States long to forestall this.

The Mexican foreign office has not been officially informed of Washington's warning, according to a foreign minister, who said that if it was true, "we must with all due respect to the president of the United States say we think he acted prematurely."

A county branch of the Eastern Oklahoma Agricultural association has been organized at Holdenville by F. J. Meek, immigration commissioner of the organization.

WHY JOHN D. WEPT.

Mr. Rockefeller wept while addressing an assemblage of deaf mutes the other day. It was the first time for many years that he had seen so many people together who had never uttered a word in denunciation of Standard Oil.—Kansas City Journal.

The killing of Editor Schenck of the Sulphur Democrat should have the effect of causing the editorial association of the state to provide a fund for the vigorous prosecution of such cases. Shooting editors should be made too dangerous a pastime to be indulged in and in every case the shooter should be made to feel the vengeance of the fraternity.

The friends of Judge Brown of Mangum, who urged his appointment as a member of the supreme court to succeed Judge Dunn, made a mistake in their methods. They should have protested against Judge Brown and urged the appointment of the other fellow. The governor would then undoubtedly have shown his back bone by appointing Brown.

The serial story now running in the News, will conclude in another day or two. It has proved one of the most popular we have ever run and when it was necessary to omit an installment for a day, the office was sure to hear from its readers, a fact showing how well they liked the story. Another will be ordered at once and this feature made a permanent one of the paper.

The Durant Democrat states that although on the occasion of his recent visit to his home town Judge R. L. Williams refused to say whether or not he would be a candidate for governor next year, the Democrat is expecting him to issue his announcement within the next month. All that could be got out of Bob when asked about it was a smile, but the Democrat claims it was a smile that had an affirmative look about it.

SAVES DAUGHTER

Advice of Mother no Doubt Prevents Daughter's Untimely End.

Ready, Ky.—"I was not able to do anything for nearly six months," writes Mrs. Laura Bratcher, of this place, "and was down in bed for three months. I cannot tell you how I suffered with my head, and with nervousness and womanly troubles.

Our family doctor told my husband he could not do me any good, and he had to give it up. We tried another doctor, but he did not help me.

At last, my mother advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic. I thought it was no use for I was nearly dead and nothing seemed to do me any good. But I took eleven bottles, and now I am able to do all of my work and my own washing.

I think Cardui is the best medicine in the world. My weight has increased, and I look the picture of health."

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, get a bottle of Cardui today. Delay is dangerous. We know it will help you, for it has helped so many thousands of other weak women in the past 50 years.

NEWS FORECAST FOR

THE COMING WEEK

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—Numerous events of more or less importance are on the calendar for the coming week, and will share public attention with the Shaw case, the developments in the Mexican situation and the proceedings of congress.

The annual meeting of the American Bar Association, which will begin a three days' session Monday in Montreal, will attract more than ordinary attention because of the unusual prominence of some of the participants. Among those who will take part are Viscount Haldane, Lord Chancellor of Great Britain, former President William H. Taft, Chief Justice White of the Supreme Court of the United States, Senator Elihu Root of New York, and Maitre Labori, one of the eminent leaders of the French bar.

A centennial of interest will be the one hundredth anniversary of the victory of the United States ship Enterprise over the British cruiser Boxer. The engagement was fought off the Maine coast Sept. 5, 1813, and attained a mournful celebrity by reason of the fact that both the American and British commanders were slain. The victory came but five days before Perry's triumph on Lake Erie, and was peculiarly welcome to the Americans since it relieved the popular depression caused by the capture of the Chesapeake by the Shannon three months before.

If his other engagements permit, Secretary of State Bryan will go to Maine during the week and spend two days stumping the Third congressional district of that state, where a special election is to be held soon to choose a successor to the late Congressman Goodwin. William R. Pattan gall, the Democratic candidate, is conducting his campaign largely on national issues, and in consequence the national Administration is taking a lively interest in the contest.

Harmony between the great families of Germany will be further shown at the marriage of Princess Augustine Victoria of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen, with the civil ceremony the day previous. Eighty princes and princesses will attend, including the Prince of Wales, representing King George, and four princesses as bridesmaids.

Other events of the week abroad will include the meeting of the Inter-parliamentary Union at The Hague, the international convention of Zionists at Vienna, and the meeting of the International Statistical Institute, also in Vienna.

Important gatherings of the week will include the annual convention of the International Association of Fire Engineers, in New York City; the national convention of the Farmers' Cooperative and Educational Union, at Salina, Kas.; the national encampment of the United Spanish War veterans, at Buffalo, and the annual meeting of the Dominion Association of Chartered Accountants, at Winnipeg.

The week of Labor Day will see the assembling of numerous labor organizations in national convention. The letter carriers will meet in San Francisco, the postoffice clerks in Indianapolis, the painters, decorators and paperhangers in Rochester, the street and electric railway employees in Salt Lake City.

Of interest to the followers of sport and athletics will be the international rifle matches at Camp Perry, the German-American sonder boat races off Marblehead, Mass., the Middle States rowing regatta at New York, the national amateur golf championship tournament at Garden City, L. I., the annual horse show at Newport, R. I., the Grand Circuit races at Hartford, Conn., the Great Western Circuit races at the Minnesota State Fair, and the opening of the fall meeting of the Montreal Jockey Club.

O. W. Taylor of Roff, state president of the Farmers Union, is being considered for appointment on the state board of agriculture. Mr. Taylor is a good man for the place and his appointment would be a merited recognition of the union.

LIND WILL NOT

RETURN TO MEXICO

Washington, Aug. 29.—Administration officials were puzzled today by dispatches saying that John Lind had reconsidered his plans to go to Mexico City and would remain in Vera Cruz for several days.

The understanding had been from official messages received yesterday that he would take a early train today for Mexico City to resume negotiations with the Huerta government.

Secretary Bryan and President Wilson had an early conference.

Has Agreed to Nothing.

Mexico City, Aug. 29.—The announcement of the possible return of John Lind to Mexico City, brought from Senor Gamboa, minister of foreign affairs, the declaration last night that Mexico had agreed to nothing and that Senor Gamboa's note of August 26 to Mr. Lind was the last communication he sent.

It was suggested to the minister that President Wilson representative was coming to the capital to resume negotiations. Senor Gamboa replied that this appeared not unlikely, as he naturally expected a reply to his last note. He added that Mr. Lind would be entirely welcome at the capital and that personally he would be glad to see him.

The return of Mr. Lind would do much to reassure thousands of anxious Americans, many of whom are planning a speedy departure from the capital.

The warning of President Wilson has been telegraphed to all consuls who could be reached in this way and arrangements have been made for couriers to points, such as Durango, which are cut off from telegraphic communication.

The warning contained the sentence:

"You will convey to the authorities the indication that any maltreatment of Americans would be likely to raise the question of intervention."

Regardless of the assurance contained in President Wilson's message, that the policy of the administration was one of non-intervention, many Americans in Mexico are skeptical re-states long to forestall this.

The Mexican foreign office has not been officially informed of Washington's warning, according to Senor minister, who said that if it was true, "we must with all due respect to the president of the United States say we think he acted prematurely."

A county branch of the Eastern Oklahoma Agricultural association has been organized at Holdenville by F. J. Meek, immigration commissioner of the organization.

A Germ Exterminator.

Miracles are taking place each day in Oklahoma, the land and home of the Red Man, owing to the fact that three new herbs have been discovered scientifically compounded, and used in a common sense way. Demonstrations are now being conducted in the larger cities of Oklahoma and in a short time will be handled in all important cities of the land. No product of nature has ever sprung into such tremendous popularity in so brief a time. Numerous inquiries are pouring in regarding this new wonder. They come from people who have despaired of all earthly help. It is performing modern day miracles for the sick. It is banishing disease conditions where every other known remedy has failed. Antagonistic to all disease conditions, it attacks weakened important diseased tissues throughout the body. It instills a flow of vital force which sweeps away stomach troubles, and ailments of the liver, kidneys, bowels and blood, no matter of how long standing. It will be found most effective and not harmful and soothing to the most delicate invalids. It destroys germs of consumption, hay fever, asthma, catarrh and sore throat. In one case of tubercular laryngitis it restored the voice after ten years of affliction. All inquiries will be gladly and promptly answered.

Legal Lights to Confer.

Montreal, Aug. 30.—Men who make, interpret and expound laws, men who have served their country in the highest executive, judicial legislative and diplomatic positions; men who bear on noble foreheads and furrowed faces the indelible marks of intellectuality, and whose thoughtful glances and positive speech betoken the trained mind and judicial temperament—these are the component parts of the distinguished company now assembling in this city for the annual meeting of the American Bar Association and the conferences of the several affiliated organizations.

This will be the first occasion on which the convention of the American Bar Association has been held outside the United States. Great importance is attached to this fact, in calling attention to which the announcement of the executive committee says: "The meeting undoubtedly will tend to cement more firmly the already warm relations between the members of the bar of the United States and Canada and will be a fitting forerunner of the celebration in February, 1914, of the centenary of peace between the two great English-speaking nations of the world."

The association has been fortunate in securing as speakers and guests of the convention three men who are eminent as representatives of the bench and bar of three of the leading nations. These men are the Rt. Hon. Viscount Haldane, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain; William H. Taft, former President of the United States, and Maitre Labori, Bâtonnier of the bar of Paris, famed for his defense of Major Dreyfus and Emile Zola.

The convention will hold its opening session Monday morning in the assembly hall of the Royal Victoria College. The opening address will be delivered by the president, Frank B. Kellogg, of St. Paul. Monday afternoon Lord Haldane will deliver the annual address before the association at the Princess Theatre, being introduced by Chief Justice White of the Supreme Court of the United States.

The session of Tuesday morning will be devoted to the reports of standing and special committees. Tuesday evening there will be a symposium on "The Struggle for the Simplification of Legal Procedure," discussed under three sub-topics, as follows: "Some Causes," by Judge W. C. Cook, of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals, Kansas; "Legal Procedure and Social Unrest," by Judge Charles Burke, of the Maryland Court of Appeals; "The Goal and Its Attainment," by William A. Blount, of Pensacola, Fla.

The feature of the Wednesday morning session will be a paper by former President William H. Taft. The Tuesday and Wednesday sessions will be held at the Royal Victoria College.

The convention will be brought to a close Wednesday evening with a grand banquet at the Windsor Hotel. Senator Elihu Root of New York will preside and former President Taft and Maitre Labori will respond to toasts.

In addition to the sessions of the convention proper there will be meetings of the Comparative Law Bureau, the sections of Legal Education and Patent Law, the Association of American Law Schools, and the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology.

Feed for Small Chicks.

Soaked feed of any kind is very injurious to small chicks. The reason for this is that the crop becomes gorged to such an extent that the food forms in a compact mass, which tends to sour before it can pass on from the crop to the gizzard.

Therefore it is very necessary to supply young chicks with only very coarse, dry food, such as equal parts of cracked corn and cracked wheat. You should also supply them liberally with ground food, such as coarse sifted mill run, corn meal, and a small amount of beef scrap with a little ground bone. With this see that the chicks are supplied plenty of green food.—Loyal F. Payne, Poultry Superintendent, Oklahoma A. and M. College, Stillwater.

The Durant Democrat announces the discovery of an iron spring near Durant that promises to make that place a popular health resort.

Van Campbell and Henry Hasbrook, two adventurous boys of Muskogee, have started down the Arkansas in a boat of their own construction, intending to drift to the gulf and thence to the Panama canal.

Gov. Colquitt of Texas declares himself in favor of sending troops to Mexico to protect the lives of American citizens.

A card to the News from Judge and Mrs. C. A. Galbraith, written in Chicago, states that that city is safe enough for a man if his wife is with him, but is a deuce of a place for a bachelor.

This evening the De Sota will reopen for business and as a starter will offer a three-reel drama, entitled "The House of Bondage." It is a drama of Puritan days in which the belief in witchcraft plays an important part. The DeSota selected this for its opening program because it was the very best that could be had anywhere. It is a program that will attract all classes

Blake's legs gave way and he sprawled inert into a chair, his head on his breast. He had all at once grown old—very, very old. Meantime, Robertson had forced his own dazed brain back into a semblance of its former strong control.

"Van Dyke," he said as calmly as if he were giving a routine order, "you will have every trace of this story destroyed tonight. It must never get beyond this room. I can count on you."

"Certainly," agreed Van Dyke with equal coolness.

There was no hint in his voice or in his manner that Mark's command entailed the defeat of a bill, the collapse of millions of dollars worth of stocks, a probably panic on Wall street and the money interests' total if temporary loss of power in congress. For the moment, the great corporation lawyer chanced to be also a man.

On his way from the room, Van Dyke paused beside Blake's chair.

"Jim," he said hesitatingly, "I'm going over to the capitol. Shall I tell Mullins to let the bill come to a vote?"

"Yes," answered Blake, without stirring or so much as looking up.

"Yes," he said again, and his voice was dead. "Yes—I'm licked."

As Van Dyke opened the door, Wanda made as though to follow him.

"If you don't need me any further, Mr. Blake," she said gently, "I'll go." Blake lifted a palsied hand in negation.

"In there," he muttered, pointing toward the door that led to the inner rooms. "I must speak to you—afterward."

When the old man raised his eyes, Mark and Grace alone were left in the room with him. Robertson was standing motionless, unseeing. Grace's sob broke the tense silence, as she fought weakly for self-control. Blake crossed over to her. She rose at his approach. "Daughter," said Blake, almost timidly, "they're all gone. None of them will tell. But there's one thing we've got to know. I'm with you, no matter what you've done. But—tell me—that—that this was all over and—done with—before you married Mark!"

"Father!"

The woman faced him in dry-eyed horror. Every trace of weeping was seared away by the flame of sudden indignation. And, at the sight, Jim Blake gave a great wordless cry and gathered her into his arms as though she were a baby.

"Oh, my little girl!" he choked, "Dad's own, own little girl! We've been tearing your poor heart to pieces and your old father was the bitterest against you. It's all right, I tell you, girl. It's all right. Dad'll see you through. You shan't be bothered. There, there! Oh, don't cry like that, darling. Don't!"

His voice grew husky. Leaving her abruptly, he crossed to Robertson.

"Mark," he faltered, avoiding his son-in-law's eye, "you promised to protect her. This is the time to do it. It was for better, for worse. If that vow is any good at all, it's a good for 'worse' as for 'better.' Mark—be gentle with her, boy."

He seemed about to say more. But, glancing furtively at Mark's set, changeless face, he forebore.

Slowly, with bent shoulders and dragging step Blake made his way to the big room's farthest end. There, in the window's embrasure, out of earshot, his back to the others, he halted.

Drawing aside the curtains he glanced out into the night. The gloom of the sleeping city was below and around him. But, in one black mass, tiers upon tiers of garish lights glowed. There, in the capitol, the Mullins bill was coming to a vote. There, Matthew Standish, freed by a miracle from the toils that craftier men had woven about him, was winning the victory which was to clear for him the pathway to the very summit of political power.

But he found his subconscious self straying from the picture he was so ruthlessly drawing. His mind would not fix itself on the lighted capitol and the wreck of his life-work; but crept over back into the dim room behind him. Even his tongue tricked him. For when he would have made it recite further the tale of his losses, it muttered brokenly:

"My own little girl! Dad's own, own little girl!"

CHAPTER XXII.

The Hour of Reckoning.

Mark Robertson and his wife, left alone, together, in the other end of the great library, faced the situation for which Grace had so long been preparing and for which her frightened years of preparation had proved so useless.

He knew. That was all. And no word of hers could gloss over or make bearable the truth. Wherefore she spoke no word, but stood looking at him; taking in every detail of the stout figure and the strong commonplace face as though she wished to carry with her forever their memory.

Mark strove for speech. But for the first time in his roughly aggressive career, suitable words were denied him. Alternately he longed to tell her in naked terms what she was and how utterly he despised her. Again, a gush of self-pity urged him to reproach her for the wrecking of his ideals, the blasting of his happiness. Vanity coming part way to his aid, he framed—and left unspoken—a curt sentence of farewell. And, in the end, all he could say was:

"Why didn't you tell me?"

It was not what he had intended to say. It was banal. It expressed none of the stark moods that seethed in him. Yet as she did not answer, he found himself asking once more:

"Why didn't you tell me?"

And now, unknown and unwished for, there crept into his bald question a note that was almost of entreaty. And at the sound, the dumb devil that had locked Grace's lips departed.

"Tell you?" she echoed. "Oh, if you knew how I've wanted to!"

"Then—"

"I didn't dare. I didn't dare."

"Truth and honor surely—"

"Your love meant more to me than truth and honor. I sacrificed them to keep it. I would sacrifice them and everything else to get it back. Is that shameful? Perhaps. The truth usually is. If I had told you, you would never have forgiven me. You know you wouldn't. If I've wronged you—"

"Haven't I Paid? Won't You Say We're Squared?"

"If you had loved me as a true woman loves, you would have told me. You would have had to. You could not have deceived me like this. Love doesn't feed on lies. It was my right to know everything, so that I could decide my own course. Instead, you have led me into this trap. There is no escape now. And it is too late to reproach you or to try to make you realize what you have done. You say your love for me kept you from telling? Believe that, if it is any comfort to you. I—"

"You say I don't know what true love is," she laughed bitterly. "I'm afraid I can never learn it from you. So your love has died? Love can't die, any more than God can die. You have never loved me."

"I—"

"Never. I see now that you didn't. For you don't know what love means. I lived for you. Every thought and word and act of mine was shaped for you. And for you alone. I knew you. I knew your faults, your follies, your brute savagery. And I loved you for them as well as for the good that was in you. But what was it you loved? The woman you married—or a snow-white saintly reputation? If you cared only for the reputation—that is gone forever. But if you loved me—the woman I am—then I've been everything you thought I was and wanted me to be—ever since the first moment you had the right to think of me at all. I gave you my life, from that time on and forever. And it has been all yours. Before then, it was mine."

"And yet you let me believe it was everything—your whole life—your first love."

"It was. All that was worth the giving. All that had ever been worth the giving. It was my self. Oh, can't you see that a woman's body and heart and soul belong not to her first lover but to her first love? No woman can even guess what love is until she has found it. And I found it only when I knew you. I gave you everything."

"I'm trying to make it easy. We've never had a real quarrel, you and I, Mark. So don't let us wind up our married life with one, now. You are in the right. I am hopelessly in the wrong. I have cheated you. I admit it, and I'll accept the consequences. It is in the blood. There is much in heredity. My father is a politician. I don't know who my grandfather was. And if he had been worth knowing about, I'd know. There is a bad strain running through the family. It cropped out in me. Yes, I have cheated you. You had the right to demand in our bargain the hard-and-fast terms the world has decreed: All of a wife's life in exchange for a frayed and battered remnant of her husband's. I can't meet those terms, though I tried to fool you into believing I could. So I must meekly give up the love whose price I can't pay. Don't let's make it harder by having a scene over it."

Chicago Minus Noise and Cabarets.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 30.—Every day is to resemble Sunday in Chicago, if some of the new city ordinances which came into effect today serve the purpose for which they are intended. Of most general interest and importance is the anti-noise law. This is expected to throw the hurdy-gurdy players, organ grinders and mud-gut musicians into the discard, and absolutely prohibits the yells and cries of the rag pickers, knife grinders and all street peddlers.

Another of the new ordinances is the anti-cabaret law. This forbids the form of restaurant-dance hall entertainment which of late has swept like a great wave from New York to San Francisco and has probably reached the zenith of its popularity in Chicago. The law prohibiting the cabaret shows makes no discrimination between the cheap music hall and the fashionable and high-priced restaurants and hotel cafes.

Thanks to another of the ordinances put into effect today it will now be possible for a Chicagoan to use the telephone without getting Jones' mother-in-law on the line when he wants the druggist. Nor will the sweet-voiced central longer ignore the importunities of the subscriber who gets hot under the collar after calling a quarter of an hour in vain for a number. All of these little worries of life are expected to be abolished as a result of the establishment of a new telephone complaint and service bureau, for which the city has appropriated $10,000. The new bureau is expected to hear every grievance at once and give full satisfaction.

Look Out For Poison Ivy

Keep Your Blood Pure and Danger will be Avoided.

All Blood Disorders are Knocked Out
by S. S. S.

Strolling through the woods or clearing brush, picnickers, hunters, fishermen—look out for poison ivy. And in the meantime keep your blood pure by using S. S. S. If your skin is rough with eczema, pimples or any other eruption, S. S. S. stimulates the fine network of blood vessels in the skin to dry up and heal all sore spots.

S. S. S. will do this positively. It dominates the principle of osmosis, stimulates the cells of the skin to select their own nutriment from the blood, made pure and healing by the wonderful medicinal ingredients of this famous blood purifier. It is a safe remedy, as it contains no minerals, and yet its action is a marvel.

You can get S. S. S. in any drug store, but insist upon having it. The Swift Laboratory in Atlanta, Ga., prepares this famous blood purifier, and you should take no chance by permitting anyone to recommend a substitute. And if your blood condition is such that you would like to consult a specialist freely, address the Medical Dept., The Swift Specific Company, 186 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.
